Paddlers stroke their way down the Gull River during the weekend's Ontario Marathon Canoe Association Provincial Championships. Winners of the competition will represent the Province at the National finals in New Brunswick in August. For a complete report on the weekend's paddling, please turn to page 5.

Police note increase in thefts

The usual summer increase in thefts in the Haliburton Highlands has been recorded by the Minden detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

Community Services Officer Gary Chapman reports there were 15 thefts reported to the detachment. Among the items taken were boats, small motors and canoes. Two of the stolen boats were chained to nearby trees.

Constable Chapman advises that equipment left unattended in the open provides an invitation to thieves. He also suggests that the property owner should mark the items with an engraving tool so it can be identified when it is located. "Crime prevention must become ingrained in our lifestyle, if the present trend is to be reversed," he commented.

In addition to the thefts from cottage area properties, a motorcycle was stolen from a shed in downtown Minden early Saturday morning. The missing machine, a 1982 Honda with licence number 176 CF has not been recovered. The investigating officer is Constable Al Bibby.

The same officer is investigating the theft of some $300 in quarters removed from two video machines at the Rockcliffe Tavern. The break-in occurred in the early hours of Friday.

Constable Brad Burkholder is investigating a break-in at the Esso gas station and store in Tory Hill. The intruder entered the premises by breaking a window. Taken in the theft were cigarettes and change valued at $50.

And police are investigating a new twist in thievery which arrived in the Highlands this past week. Two video rental stores lost a VCR machine, valued at $450 each and a number of tapes, valued at $50 each when a client rented the merchandise and failed to return it. In both cases a stolen driver's licence from Toronto was used as a method of identification.

The person renting the equipment was a female.

According to Constable Chapman, the recent decision to add photographs to Ontario licences will help eliminate this sort of fraud.

For the moment, however, the police recommend that renters inspect the individual's car and note the licence plate number before completing the transaction.

Political parties prime the electoral pump

With the announcement on Monday of a federal election, local riding associations have already begun gearing up for the September 4 vote.

The Victoria-Haliburton Liberal Association has already chosen its candidate in Lindsay lawyer Bruce Glass. The Progressive Conservatives, who have held the seat for 39 years, have yet to hold a nominating convention, but the incumbent MP, Bill Scott, has announced he intends to stand for election. The local Libertarian Party organization has announced it will select a candidate for this riding in the near future.

Bruce Glass said he was pleased with the call for a late summer election. "There has been a great deal of speculation and talk about the vote, so I think most people were gearing up for it. We might as well get going on it," he told The Times Tuesday morning.

Glass identified two areas which he felt were priority items in the summer campaign. "I believe the Member of Parliament for this riding must act as an industrial commissioner," he said. "We have lost industry over the years, so we must hustle to bring industry into the riding."

The Liberal candidate said the MP should be involved in obtaining grants for the riding to help attract industry to the area. "We are a little off the beaten path," he said referring to the Highway 401 corridor, "but we have something to offer industry if they are looking for a place to locate."

Glass said his second priority would be tourism. "The tourist trade has suffered in Canada in the past few years," he said. He blamed this situation on the high cost of travel and accommodation. "I think we should try a policy of reducing the gasoline tax in June, July and August." He said the federal government could be responsible for this while the provincial government could reduce taxes on food and lodging during the same months. "This would have to be a co-operative effort between the federal and provincial governments," Glass noted, but he felt any loss in revenue would be more than made up through increases in income taxes.

Commenting on the riding's 39 year Conservative leanings, Glass said he saw that record as a challenge. "It is interesting to note that both main parties have new leaders. Well, I'm new too so perhaps it is time for a change here."

Glass, who attended the Liberal Leadership convention last month, will have no trouble working with the new party leader. When Turner resigned from the Liberal government, Glass indicated his support for the man and went to the leadership convention pledged to Turner.

The Liberal candidate added that he did not feel the postponement of the Queen's visit to Canada will have a detrimental impact on the party's political fortunes. He said the new schedule for Her Majesty's visit coincides with the area's Indian Summer, so it will be a more enjoyable experience for all concerned.

Conservatives

Incumbent candidate Bill Scott has said that he will allow his name to stand for the party's nomination. He said the nominating meeting has been tentatively set for July 26.

According to the Member of Parliament, the local party members have been gearing up for an election for the past couple of weeks. He said that committee room facilities in Lindsay have already been secured.

Commenting on the issues facing the voters this summer, Scott said he felt the biggest concern was unemployment and energy costs.

"There is widespread concern over unemployment," he commented "and particularly over youth unemployment." He suggested that retraining programs were needed to introduce the young unemployed to the new technologies which are needed to secure work. "We've got to get people back to work," he commented.

On the question of energy prices, Scott said that the high cost of gasoline has had a devastating impact on tourism. He said he had received many complaints and comments from tourist oriented businesses who felt the operation was affected by the high cost of gasoline. He noted the impact of high gas prices crosses over to his first concern of unemployment. "If people aren't moving about, there are less jobs available, especially in the tourism sector. When the price of gasoline is down, people move more."

Scott said he was proud of the Progressive Conservative party's new leader, Brian Mulroney. He described him as a personable leader who has been working hard to put together a good package for the upcoming election.

The MP said he felt many individuals were upset and disappointed by the postponement of the Queen's visit to Canada. He pointed out that a great deal of money had been spent on preparations leading up to the visit. He said the postponement of the trip was given at a rather late date.

Assessing the party's prospects nationally, Scott noted that the polls indicated the Conservatives were trailing the Liberals at this point, however he stressed that those polls were taken in the aftermath

Ducks saved from Gull River 'Jaws'

A life and death drama on the Gull River last week had a happy ending for a mallard duck and her family and friends.

The drama took place near the Minden Pines Cottages in Minden on Thursday evening.

Don Davidson and his aunts Doris and Edith Smith heard a noise from the direction of the river about 5:30 p.m.

"It was during the hardest rainfall of the storm when we heard a racket out on the river," Don recalls. "When we looked out the window we saw a duck and a bunch of young ones out in the middle of the river. The mother seemed to be chasing her young ones away."

Suddenly the mother was pulled under but she managed to fight her way to the surface. "She was fighting like the devil to keep her head above water," Don said.

At that point Don ran out into the rain, jumped in his boat and rowed out to the scene of the struggle. He saw that a large snapping turtle had seized the mallard and was trying to drag her under. After Don hit the turtle with an oar the duck broke free and swam to the opposite shore.

With some help from guests at the Minden Pines the injured mallard was netted and placed in a cage.

"After we got her in the cage she called out and one of the young ones ran up and got into the cage with her," Don said, adding "We had the mother, one duckling and twelve to go," referring to the ducklings who had fled.

"After going up and down the river about 6 or 7 times we were able to herd them into the dock and put them in another cage."

While the dozen ducklings were being rounded up, Veterinarian Peter J. Bennett arrived and brought the mother duck back to his clinic. After stitching several abdominal wounds and administering antibiotics he returned the duck to the cottages. Edith noted that "when Doctor Bennett returned with the mother he refused payment saying that the duck was as much his as anyone else's. So we are going to name the duck P.J. in his honour."

Mallard ducklings enjoy a splash in the tub.

Doctor Bennett prescribed a week of rest for the mother before she is returned to the river so since Thursday evening the family of ducks have been guests at the cottages. They are being fed a mixture of hard boiled eggs, bread and lettuce and several times each day the ducklings go for a swim in the bathtub.

Although the mother has suffered some permanent damage to one leg, she is recuperating rapidly.

Canning Lake group considers dump concerns

The new executive of the Canning Lake Property Owners Association will examine the concerns raised about the Ingoldsby garbage dump and whether the facility should be relocated. The group held its annual meeting July 8 at the home of Bill and Olive Riddell on the lake.

The concern about the dump was brought to the meeting's attention by Ingoldsby property owner Joe Curtin. Mr. Curtin, who earlier this year expressed his concerns through a letter to the editor which appeared in The Times, told the meeting that leachate from the dump is moving toward Canning Lake. He said details of the leachate movement have been drawn from reports prepared by the Ministry of Environment.

The property owners were told that a small swampy area is all that separates their lake from the dump. He suggested that the association should send a resolution to the Anson, Hindon and Minden council asking them to consider relocating the Ingoldsby facility.

Bruce Farmer, a member of the property owner's executive, told the meeting that he had contacted individuals at the MOE and was told that the leachate from the dump was not having a serious impact on the two streams which flow out of the dump. He said the ministry has indicated that it will continue to monitor the situation every two years.

Anson, Hindon and Minden Councillor Dave Stevens told the association, "the council is attempting to do the best it can with the situation we have." He noted that burning is permitted at the dump to help reduce the volume of garbage and the odour. He promised that more cover material would be made available at the facility and repeated the MOE's statement that leachate was not having a significant impact on surface water in the area and was not likely to have in the future.

In other matters before the membership, tribute was paid to retiring secretary Jack Ashby. He had served as the association's secretary for the past 13 years and had been a member since the group was formed. Mr. Ashby, who was unable to attend the meeting due to health problems, will receive a life membership in the organization. Jim Mitchell, who made the presentation on behalf of the association described Mr. Ashby as a willing worker and individual who was always ready to volunteer.

Year-round resident Morgan Loucks reported to the meeting on the activities of the municipal councils. He noted that a new design is now being prepared for the Ingoldsby bridge and that it should be approved soon with construction underway by the end of the summer. Mr. Loucks pointed out that the clearance under the bridge will be unchanged and that the channel width should remain the same or be enhanced.

Loucks noted that some cottagers have decided to purchase the shoreline allowance in front of their property. He suggested that abutting property owners apply together to make the purchase as it will cut down on survey and advertising costs.

He also informed the association that he was now serving on the Anson, Hindon and Minden's Planning Advisory Committee representing lake-front property owners in the municipality. He noted the committee is extensively involved in the creation of an official plan for the townships. Mr. Loucks suggested that his inclusion on the committee was an indication of the council recognizing the importance of recreational property owners in the municipality.

The meeting also heard from Constable Gary Chapman of the Minden detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police. He explained how the Neighbourhood Watch program could be implemented on the lake and suggested actions the cottage owners could take to protect their property from thieves.

Other matters dealt with during the meeting included the presentation of the bass tournament trophy and cash prize to Scott Wiggin. His prize winning catch was a four pound five ounce large mouth.

The members were reminded of the organization's Fun day planned for Ingoldsby Park, August 4 at 4 p.m. and the lake association golf tournament, which is set for July 22 at Beaverbrook Golf Club.

Before the meeting closed, the group elected the 1984 officers and directors. Returning for another year as the association's president is Joe Stauffer. Vice president will be Jack Robson with Whit Morris as secretary and Ron Packer as treasurer. Members of the board of directors for the coming year included Dale

De Ath, Bruce Farmer, Morgan Loucks, Wes Lytle, Jim Mitchell, Ed Ramsdale, Bill Riddell, Don Russell, Michael Van Every, Ken Williamson, June Jefford and Dave Jefford.

Inge Margrit Lovell was among 584 students to receive degrees at the annual convocation ceremonies held June 1 at Trent University. Miss Lovell was presented with her Bachelor of Science Degree from the university.

Guild show draws large crowd

An estimated 500 people were in attendance at the opening of the Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts Summer Exhibition and Sale at the J. Douglas Hodgson Senior Elementary School on Friday, July 6.

The exhibition was considered by many people to be the most impressive show in the 23 year history of the exhibition.

Chris Lynd, curator of the Rails' End Gallery in Haliburton described the show as the culmination of four months of hard work and organizing by nearly 75 people and noted that 200 people are required to keep the show going. Richard

Gorwell, Chairman of the Board of Sir Sandford Fleming College spoke of the excitement of the opening night and the exhibition noting that there has been a significant improvement in the quality of the work since the exhibitions were first held.

The articles on display are the works of 70 artists and artisans who are members of the Guild of Fine Arts.

Prior to the opening of the show the arts and crafts were judged by a panel of three professional artists and designers.

The person whose work was considered the best in each category was awarded a gift certificate or a one week scholarship to Sir Sandford Fleming College School of Fine Arts in Haliburton.

Mrs. Joan Foster executive director of the Ontario Crafts Council who presented the award for the best design of the show, said that the panel of judges "tried to support people who made a well thought out and unique work" adding that the children's art was a delightful addition to the show.

The children whose artwork is on display are students in Haliburton County schools who have been awarded scholarships to the School of Fine Arts during the summer.

Louise Card received the award for the best design of the show and placed first in the ceramics category. Timothy Laurin was second in ceramics.

Other guild members whose works were judged first in each category were: Weaving, Margaret Bridge-land; Woven Garments, Clair McLeod; Woven

Floor Covering, Margit Morraal; Painting, Mary Hartly; Photography, Peter Stewart; Embellished Clothing, Marta Vanderwal; Woodworking, Kevin Dunlop; and Knitted Garment, Mary Van Lieshout.

The Summer Exhibition and Sale continues until July 21.

Opening night art show enthusiasts examine some of the many fine pieces on display at the J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School in Haliburton. The show, sponsored by the Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts, continues until July 21.

of the Liberal leadership convention. He said the results of the polls reflect the intensive media exposure of the leadership convention.

Scott included by saying he felt the Conservative Party had a very good chance of forming a majority government following the vote on September 4.

Libertarians

The Libertarian Party of Canada plans to have a candidate in this riding in the upcoming election although the nominating procedures have not been carried out. According to a spokesman for the group, Bob Marttila of Peterborough, the candidate for Victoria - Haliburton should be known within a week.

He said the party feels it is time for a change and that the present government has left the country in a "substantial mess" as he described it. "The Liberal and Conservative parties are offering more of the same, more government handouts and more government interference," he said. The Libertarian Party would return more money to the private sector.

"We've become a transfer society," Marttila said, "taking money from one group of people and giving it to another." He said the Libertarian Party would return control to the individuals rather than leaving it as it now stands, with the politicians. He noted that the two main parties in Canada have been paying 'lip service' to many of the free enterprise ideas espoused by his party but that it was little more than words.

Marttila indicated that his party was ready for the election campaign. We have been doing some fund raising and organizing, he commented. "We're ready to go."

The Times was unable to reach a spokesman for the New Democratic Party in the Victoria - Haliburton riding.

No place like home

It's summertime and the Haliburton Highlands once again are alive with visitors. Cottage owners have descended on all area lakes, many resorts are enjoying a busy year and special attractions in the county have brought many more visitors to our area.

It is at times like these that those of us fortunate to live here year round can, with a little help from visitors, realize just how fortunate we are. There is a degree of truth in the axiom that familiarity breeds contempt. Certainly those who reside here year round do not always appreciate the beauty and attractiveness of the Highlands. Often it takes a nudge, perhaps from an overheard conversation on the street or in a restaurant, to make one realize that there are few other places in the province as attractive as the Highlands.

Can it be true? It must be, if Highway 35 on Friday or Sunday nights is the reliable indication people claim it is. The influx of visitors, be they cottage owners, resort vacationers or transient tourists, is proof that those of us who have selected the Highlands as our permanent home are indeed fortunate.

Session's unfinished business

-by John Eakins, MPP -

The Ontario Legislature has now recessed for the summer. Over a period of more than 14 weeks — 322 hours of debate — the Assembly has passed some 41 pieces of legislation. Opposition critics charge that matters of substance weren't given the priority they deserved, and that from a legislative point of view, it was the most unproductive session in our history. Liberal House Leader Robert Nixon commented, "I've been here 22 years and I can't recall a time when less public business was brought before the House."

Unfinished business

Business left unfinished includes proposed changes to the Theatres Act which would give the Ontario Censor Board authority over videos and licence distributors of tapes.

In addition, left in abeyance is a new Child Welfare Act which would enunciate the rights of children and the responsibilities of people who care for them. Over the summer months the proposal will be examined by an all-party committee of Members.

Amendments to the Workers' Compensation Act intended to improve the situation for injured workers will also be examined in committee.

Nursing Home Beds

The Minister of Health has stated that hospital user fees for chronic care patients waiting for beds in nursing homes are "unacceptable" and won't be tolerated. He has been strongly criticized by Opposition Members for failing to ban such fees prior to the question being raised in the Legislature. Apparently his Ministry knew about the charges being levied by several provincial hospitals as long ago as February, and no action was taken against the fees. The Minister maintained that he only learned of the practice about six weeks ago.

Barrie Vespra

The provincial government called a halt to a "filibuster" blocking passage of an annexation bill involving the City of Barrie and Vespra township. It had been hoped that the government would back off its plans to force the annexation of some 810 hectares (2,000 acres) of Vespra land by Barrie, permitting the two parties to negotiate a settlement. The Township of Vespra opposes the annexation and for a decade has fought off overtures from Barrie for the area which includes commercial development.

Youth unemployment

In a recent "Provincial Affairs" program, Liberal Leader David Peterson spoke about Ontario's unemployed young people. Following are some excerpts from that program.

"I think all of us would agree that Ontario is a province of great opportunity and it is also a land of much wasted potential.

At the current time fully 184,000 young people are listed on the unemployment rolls in Ontario. Thousands more are without jobs and

Federation of Ontario Naturalists

Carnivorous plants have long been appreciated by makers of horror films and fairy tales. There is something bizarre about the whole idea, which seems to reverse the natural order of things wherein animals do the munching and plants stand passively by waiting to be consumed.

So far as I know, there aren't any reliable reports as yet of humans being devoured by any variety of local flora. But carnivorous plants are in fact very common in Ontario. Sundews are a good example.

Sundews have small, white flowers carried on a stock a few inches tall. But from a distance, you are more likely to notice the fuzzy red of mass of leaves lying close to the ground and growing all around the flower stock. Closer up, you'll see that each leaf consists of a stem ending in a round green pad, about the size of your little fingernail, and covered with red bristles or spines. The spines in the centre of the leaf are short but those on the edges are longer as their tips exude clear, shining droplets. Hence the name Sundews.

Closer still, things get a little nastier. Sooner or later, you'll see an insect or the remains of one, trapped by a Sundew leaf. The process, originally studied by Charles Darwin over a century ago, begins when an insect is lured by the sweet droplets or chooses to land in ignorance on the leaf. It doesn't take long to get stuck in one or more of these sticky droplets and then over a period of hours, the spines holding the insect bend inward toward the smaller gland-tipped spine in the centre of the leaf.

Of course, getting caught by a plant isn't exactly the same as being "eaten". But researchers have found definite proof that Sundews actually digest their prey. By feeding insects containing radioactive phosphorous to experimental plants, scientists found that the plant soon became radioactive themselves, proving that the phosphorous was indeed incorporated by the plants into their own tissues. The amazing thing is that almost all the usable phosphorous contained in the insects bodies was taken up by the plant in just 24 hours. Considering this was accomplished in spite of the indigestible skeletons of the insects, it really makes you wonder how the Sundew digestive juices would work on your little finger if given a chance for a few hours.

Why did these plants develop such peculiar dining habits? The answer can be found in their environment. The sorts of places Sundews

Paddlers test Gull River racecourse

While the Tall Ships sailed into Toronto harbour this past weekend a fleet of much smaller watercraft was travelling up and down the Gull River through Minden during the 1984 Ontario Provincial Marathon Canoe and Kayak Racing Championships.

Competitors from throughout the province were vying for a position on the team that will represent the province at the national championships to be held in New Brunswick in August.

The racers competed in 16 different classes during the two day event. A standard recreational canoe was used in the cruising class but in the remaining single and two person canoe and kayak classes narrow, light-weight racing shells made of Kevlar were used exclusively. Racing paddles with blades that bend forward allowing for a longer power stroke and faster speeds, were used in the canoe classes.

Saturday's trials ended with a race between four canoe clubs in the North canoe class. These 26 foot long canoes powered by six paddlers are fashioned after the voyageur canoes of the fur trading era.

The races began and ended at the Rotary Park in Minden. The senior classes paddled south on the river to the Sunnybrook bridge, turned and headed upstream to a portage in the park, re-entered the river and proceeded south again to Gull Lake before turning and paddling upstream to the finish. During the race the paddlers switch sides every 20 strokes to minimize fatigue.

The race course was originally set to continue to the south end of Gull Lake but because of the high waves on the lake the course was shortened. By adding extra loops in the river course the total distance travelled remained approximately the same at 30 km for the senior classes. The bantam classes covered a distance of 5 km.

On Saturday the cold wet weather discouraged spectators but did little to dampen the enthusiasm of the racers. Twenty nine boats entered the mixed events.

Maks Zuppan, an experienced racer who placed second in the Masters Class in the North American Championships this summer found the weather conditions nearly ideal.

He prefers cooler temperatures than are normal in July but felt that "the weather could have been a touch warmer". He described the course as "excellent" noting that the river "required good technique to work the current".

The current was a key factor at the start of the race in particular. As the racers jockeyed for position a number of canoes were tipped over by the strong current that swept around the bend in the river.

On Sunday, 52 boats took part in the junior and senior classes under clear skies and much warmer temperatures.

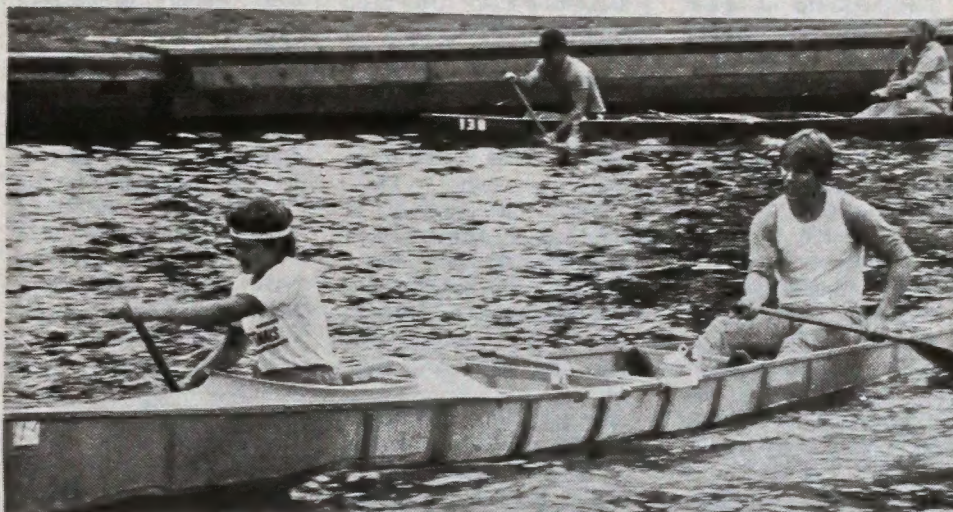

The top two finishers in each class qualified for the provincial team.

During the championship event organizers set up the headquarters at the existing facilities at the Minden White Water Preserve. Because of the availability of the facilities and the excellence of the race course organizers are considering further races on the Gull River and possibly setting up permanent headquarters for the annual championships.

The following is a list of the first and second place finishers who qualified for the provincial team and their winning times.

4000 watch bikes climb mountain

Total prize money of $15,000, the largest purse ever offered in the history of the sport, attracted 32 competitors to the STP Canadian National Motorcycle Hillclimbing Championship held near Wilberforce on Sunday, July 8.

A crowd of 4,000 enthusiastic fans cheered on their favourites as the riders raced the clock up the side of Mount Williams.

The specially designed motorcycles, mainly Triumphs, B.S.A.s and Harley Davidsons burn nitromethane fuel and can reach speeds of up to 80 mph on the steep incline. Tire chains on the back wheels increase traction on the soft track.

The 500 ft. track is divided into four steep sections and three plateaus. The riders with the fastest times of the day jumped completely over the third plateau and reached their top speed at the finish line which was placed 30 ft. below the crest of the hill.

Each rider had two attempts at the hill. Most of the riders, who ranged in age from 17 - 60 were from Pennsylvania, Michigan and Ohio.

John Williams from Markham, Ontario, a 24 year veteran of the sport and a five time world champion, was both an organizer of the event and a participant. He drove a 6 cylinder Benelli in his two runs but finished out of the money.

His sons Greg and Wade also ran on Sunday. Greg was a recent winner of the Indiana State Championship and is currently the points leader in the overall World Championship. Like his father Greg placed out of the top three but Wade held up the family's reputation by placing second in the 750 cc class only one tenth of a second slower than the fastest time of the day.

Earl Bowlby of Logan, Ohio was the first place finisher in the 750 cc class with a winning time of 7.12 seconds. Wade Williams was second with 7.21 seconds and last year's winner T. R. Reiser from Orient, Ohio placed third with a time of 7.42 seconds.

In the 500 cc class Jeff Hale won with a time of 8.43 seconds. The number two finisher was Ralph Kreeger, finishing in 8.99 seconds, and third place went to Jimmy Clark in a time of 9.05 seconds.

A competitor is caught in mid flight during the Canadian National Hillclimb championship.

from the chamber

For the thirteenth consecutive year, the Ontario Ministry of Industry and Trade is sponsoring a low cost management consulting service for Ontario businesses, involving approximately 250 senior business students.

Through the University Small Business Consulting Program, students at 12 universities will provide assistance in such areas as financial planning, inventory control, marketing, promotion and production scheduling. At each university they will be closely supervised by the business faculty.

The 12 participating universities are Carlton, Lakehead, Laurentian, McMaster, Ottawa, Queens, Ryerson, Toronto, Western, Windsor, Wilfrid Laurier, and York. Full time consulting by the students began May 1 and continues until September. The service continues through fall and winter on a part time basis.

Security bill pushed through

- by Bill Scott, MP -

The spring session of Parliament has come to an end. A number of pieces of legislation were rushed through at the last minute.

Bill C-9, The Canadian Security Intelligence Service Act, was passed at second reading when the government forced closure on the Bill on June 20. The House sat overnight and voted on over 175 amendments. The NDP Party requested a recorded vote on each single amendment which meant we left the House at sunrise. The Bill will establish a civilian security agency separate from the RCMP.

As the session ended, we experienced a new round of attack on the Canadian dollar. Never before in our history has the dollar dropped below the 76c mark in relation to the U.S. dollar. This has caused another wave of increases to bank interest rates. It appears at this time that there could be further increases over the summer as the government is forced to defend the dollar.

This points out the need for a new interest rate policy which is more dependent upon the state of the Canadian economy and less on that of other countries. This cannot be done by a government who has been committed to a high interest rate policy for the last four years and now proposes to increase our deficit to support the bankrupt Sports Pool.

On a more positive note, I want to extend my congratulations to Norah Good on her achievements at the International Games for the Disabled in Uniondale, N.Y. at the end of June. Norah was selected to the Canadian team and has brought Canada, Haliburton and her parents honour by her performance at these Games. She began by shattering the world record for 3000 metres by over 14 seconds and came second in the 1500 metres event. The Ottawa papers claimed her as Ottawa's own. I want to go on record as correcting them, as I know Norah's heart is still in Haliburton and we are very proud of her accomplishments.

During the summer, I will be spending my time in the constituency. I look forward to meeting many of you at functions and I remind you that my offices are available to you at all times whether or not an election is called. I hope you have a very pleasant summer.

grow in, such as mats of sphagnum moss in bogs, old weather beaten logs, and roadsides with exposed mineral soil, are all acidic, quite sterile environments with very limited supplies of important nutrients such as phosphorous and nitrogen needed by every plant and animal. Faced with this challenge to meeting their nutritional requirements in the normal way, some plants, over millions of years of evolution, found a new, if unconventional, food source. Insects.

When you think about it there is nothing unnatural at all in this behaviour. Sundews have simply adapted to their surroundings in order to survive. And their taste in food offers some real benefits to us too. If you examine any of the insect carcasses on a Sundew, you'll likely find mosquitoes and blackflies.

Special seniors' holidays

by Jim Wilkinson

In the last issue of "Especially for Seniors", received by all Senior Citizens, a holiday programme called "Elderhostel" was mentioned.

Elderhostel is a programme of education and group living suited to the needs of elder citizens on the move. It is a network of 700 colleges, universities, etc. in Canada, U.S.A., Great Britain, France and Israel which offer special low-cost, short-term residential academic programmes for older adults. It is open to people over 60 years of age. The courses begin on a Sunday evening and end Saturday morning and are limited to 30 - 40 elders.

I recently attended an Elderhostel programme at Humber College in Toronto. The fee for a course anywhere in North America this year is $190.00.

Twenty-six people attended this course, twenty-one from U.S.A. and five from Canada. We had comfortable single rooms, excellent meals and the fellowship among the group was superb.

Each day we attended three lectures. Anyone who has a Grade 8 plus education would be at home. My course had sessions on: The Art of Story-telling, North American Indians, and Folklore. There are hundreds of courses in our country and the U.S.A. to choose from. All courses for 1984 except for Humber College are full. However, we have information on when to apply for 1985 courses in our office and in the Information Centre and all Haliburton libraries.

You'll never know what you've missed if you don't get involved in a little hostel living plus education plus making new friends.

P.S. If you are a senior or a disabled person and have something of interest to others you would like to share, please contact our office at 457-2941.

All Home Helper Volunteers are reminded of our "Get-together" on July 17 at 2 p.m. at our office.

Have a nice day!

Truckers want policy

Truckers in the Minden area want to know why certain individuals are chosen for work being done by the municipality. Because of the number of questions councillor Gary Kenney has received on this matter, he feels the township council should set a policy outlining the truck hiring procedure.

The councillor said that especially when grant money is involved, the municipality should have a policy for letting the work out. "This appears to be an issue for which we should have a policy," he commented.

Reeve Lyle McKnight asked the councillor to identify those who were making the complaints. Kenney said he would not, and that he was not bringing a specific complaint to the table but rather requesting the council to consider the matter in light of a number of calls he had received on the issue.

McKnight said that he had carried out research into the hiring practices of the municipality and during last year the truckers in the area had shared equally in the work being offered by the municipality.

Kenney said there was more to the issue than the dollars involved and he suggested if the county required a policy for truck hiring, the municipality should have one too.

The road committee, which is chaired by Councillor Kenney, was given the task of drafting the policy for the community.

For information concerning the adoption of these dogs please contact Dr. Peter Bennett at the Minden Animal Clinic. Call 286-2919.

Editor:

May I use your paper to express the thanks of the Victoria Haliburton County Canadian Cancer Society for all the work that has been done in the 1984 Campaign.

Although there are a few loose ends to tidy up, it appears that the campaign is well over its objective and this is due entirely to the hard work of the canvassers and the team captains who spent many hours on it.

There have been major strides in the past 12 months toward a control of this disease. In the next few years, cancer may stop being the menace which it now is. When this happens, all those people who worked so hard in raising money, can take an appreciable amount of the credit themselves.

Thank you also for all the help that your paper has given us these last few months.

Winning streak continues

In the past week the Rockcliffe Hustlers pounded out two more wins raising their record to 9 wins and 2 losses putting them in a tie for first place with Lindsay Kent Tavern who have a 9 wins and 5 loss record. This almost assures the Hustlers of a first place finish as besides having four games remaining, Kent having one, the locals have defeated the Tavern in all three meetings this year.

On Wednesday (July 4), on a two hitter thrown by Jack Snell, the Rockcliffe boys whipped Kent Tavern 4 - 1. In a low scoring affair the Hustlers got all the runs they needed in the third inning as Greg Newell and Snell singled, Barry Hammond walked and Bob Hammond slammed a double to score the three runs. Lindsay picked up one in the fourth but the locals added an insurance run in the fifth to end the scoring.

Dave Hartwick and Greg Newell each had two hits for the winners.

On Sunday the Hustlers travelled to Lindsay and slammed Lindsay Dawn Nurseries by the score of 7 - 0. Snell was again the winning pitcher raising his record to 6 wins against 2 losses. The Newell family supplied the power as Collin, Greg and Gene (Pop) all slammed two hits each.

The Hustlers entertain the Lindsay Auctioneers this Wednesday night at 8:00 p.m. at Minden Ball Field.

This weekend the Rockcliffe boys travel to Harcourt for the annual Harcourt tournament. They play their first game at 8:30 p.m. Friday night. This is a fun filled weekend so all you baseball fans load up and come over and give the boys some support.

John Eakins

have given up the search.

It is a tragedy of immense proportions.

It is a tragedy whose roots can be traced to the current educational system which was put in place in the 1960's and 1970's.

Let's look at the facts.

Of 100 students entering grade nine, 36 will quit secondary school before graduation and of those who graduate, 27 will not seek a higher level of educational training.

Roughly only 11 or 12 of the grade nine class will enter and complete university, another seven or eight will go through community colleges and a scant two or three will complete apprenticeship programs, achieving skills in demand in today's world.

In a world of vast technological change — with all of its accompanying opportunities for a full working life — thousands of our young people are not achieving, either because the opportunity is not clear to them or is being withheld from them.

We are in desperate need of educational reform in this province ... One such reform would be the expansion of co-operative educational opportunities for students in Ontario Secondary Schools. The best way to learn about work is by working; yet, in today's Ontario roughly only 15,000 students are given the opportunity of co-operative education courses combining in-school instruction and on-site real work experience.

Only about $2 million is being spent on co-op education. Increasing spending to $17 million would enable every grade 12 student in Ontario to seize the co-op opportunity.

The success of the program is unchallengeable. A 1983 study by Queen's University found that 50 per cent of co-op students landed jobs following the program. A further 36.5 per cent went on to community college; 7.3 per cent into apprenticeship programs; and 4.7 per cent on to university. Only a scant 1.5 per cent were unsure of their destination after experiencing co-op education.

Compare that to the statistics I cited earlier of high-school dropout rates approaching 40 per cent. Co-op education is one way to go in stimulating greater interest among our young people in gaining the skills they need to land jobs.

It is a deplorable fact of life in Ontario that we are firing teachers and closing labs and shops at a time when forecasters cite the need for more skilled people being produced by our educational system.

Our school system is failing us and our young people ... We desperately need reform now."

Dixie Lee loses 5-1 to Orillia

by Jim Milne

The Dixie Lee soccer team lost its first home game on the Minden field last Sunday, 5 - 1, playing against Orillia Inter.

The visiting team moved the ball well with short accurate passes. They didn't hesitate to pass the ball back when players ahead of the ball were covered. Dixie Lee, despite their visitor's team play, had a number of opportunities to score. With Orillia leading 2 - 0 in the first half Tim Davies broke free and bounced the ball off the post.

In the second half Orillia scored two more goals before Dwayne Warburton took a kick that deflected off a defender, past the goalie into the net.

In spite of the high score, Andy Shapiera in the Haliburton goal was steady and reliable.

The team will practise in Minden Thursday evening and play Gravenhurst in Minden next Sunday, July 14 at 2:00 p.m.

Summer traffic brings increase in accidents

There were 28 accidents reported to the OPP during the past week, the highest weekly number in recent memory. The increase is no doubt due to increased traffic in the area. Among the mishaps under investigation are:

- The driver of a car was injured with the vehicle entered the right ditch then swerved across the highway where it became airborne and ended up in an adjacent swamp. The driver, 53 year old Doreen Bronson of Don Mills was taken to Minden Hospital for treatment of injuries sustained in the accident. The mishap occurred July 3 on Highway 35 in Lutterworth Township. Damage to the car was estimated at $1,000. Constable Brad Burkholder is the investigating officer.

- A man has been charged with driving while his licence was under suspension after he was involved in a single vehicle mishap on Highway 503 in Snowdon Township. Cliff Hardy, 36, of Toronto swerved to avoid a deer on the roadway when his vehicle entered the ditch and rolled over. The driver was taken by ambulance to Haliburton Hospital for treatment. The investigating officer was Constable Glen Irving.

- A Mississauga driver found his car in the Gull River July 8 after he swerved his 1980 model Cadillac on South Water Street in Minden. The driver, 19 year old Mark Hall of Mississauga, sustained minor injuries. He has been charged with careless driving. Three passengers were uninjured. The incident was investigated by Constable Brian Dunham.

- Three charges have been laid against a driver or motorcycle who missed a turn on Airport Road in Dysart Township. The vehicle slammed into a stump after leaving the roadway. Charged with careless driving, driving without a licence and driving without a helmet is Michael Robinson, 20, of Toronto. He and passenger Elizabeth Mathews, 17, of Kleinburg, were taken to Haliburton Hospital for treatment of injuries. The investigating officer was Constable Dave Rogers.

High-flying airshow

The annual Stanhope Fly-In and Airshow drew an enthusiastic and appreciative audience Sunday afternoon. The event featured a dazzling display of aerobatic skills and dexterity. The show was opened by the Labatt's Blue Sky Diving Team, seen at the right descending in formation. Other acts included a miniature radio-controlled model aircraft demonstration, the antics of stunt flyer Gary Schroeder, antique biplanes, ultralights and a military helicopter. Following the airshow, the audience was treated to a musical presentation by the Jeff Barry Band. The day was deemed the most successful in the four year history of the event.

Committee wants building to be relocated

The members of the Minden County Town Museum Committee are feeling a bit crowded by the addition of a mini-fair structure next to the newly opened museum. The structure, which is partially completed was erected behind the library cultural centre and adjacent to the new museum.

Council representative Pat Burk told the meeting the committee members felt the structure detracted from their efforts and that it should be moved before it becomes a permanent fixture in that location. She suggested that the open structure could be located at one end of the parking lot.

The art gallery committee had requested the use of the building for craft demonstrations, summer programs for children and for arts and crafts sales. The council agreed to look into relocating the pavilion.

Guild news

by Virginia Muenzel

The word is out, and so are the tickets! Best of all, the price is the same, $20 for three concerts. You can't get tickets that cheap in the city. The concert committee of the Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts has lined up another superb program of concerts.

This year, all three of the performances will be coming to us fresh from the Toronto International Festival. They are all highly acclaimed, and have each received rave reviews from the critics.

The first group, "Repercussion", will perform on November 26, 1984 at 7:30 p.m. If it snows, hire a dog-sled. If there's a downpour, find an ark. That's what one music critic said about this unique group of percussionists. "You'll never forget them once you've seen them. Whether you're eight, or eighty, they'll delight, amaze, and thrill you with their choreographed performance, complete with jokes, stunts, snappy costumes, and evocative lighting effects."

This group are the Canadian Brass of percussion. If it can be hit, they play it. And what they play is quite simply, any form of music you can imagine ...

Latin rhythms, orchestral works, piano sonatas, rag-time, and, of course, rock and roll. It's the hottest evening of musicianship you're liable to find.

"Eritage" will perform on April 1, 1985, at 8:00 p.m. Eritage is a terrific French-Canadian folk band. The six-man multi-instrument group from Montreal mixes traditional and current folk music. The tunes are an appealing blend of foot-stomping rhythm with heart-tugging melodies with words that picture the life of the habitants. The poetry is close to the earth and the life that is sweated from it. They sing of the farmer, the trapper and the fisherman and the families they often must leave.

Everyone in Eritage excels on a variety of instruments, and most of the arrangements are joint efforts. The result is that the program appeals to a wider audience. The accordion and the fiddle can beat out a toe-tapping jig or reel and the mood is instantly changed when the fiddle is joined by the cello and bass to back a vocal. Eritage's exceptional background has won the group outstanding recognition, both in Canada and the U.S.

"Prima Donna" performs on April 23, 1985 at 8:00 p.m. If you love opera, even if you think you hate it, you have got to see this performance. It is, on one hand, an operatic spoof, full of irreverence and humour, but, not without its sensitive, provocative moments. The show starts with Mary Lou Fallis coming in from shopping, with groceries in a child's stroller. She sets herself up, beginning with her debut as a 2 1/2 year old, warbling about the pleasures of being a yellow duck.

It goes on from there to describe her career, from Kiwanis Festival bouts with high heels to austere mornings in the church choir ("I had to stop because it didn't pay very much and all the preaching made me feel guilty"), and ultimately the triumph of hitting all those high F's in the Queen of the Night's aria in The Magic Flute.

Prima Donna is a splendid entertainment, with enough real singing to identify its perpetrator as something more than a latter-day Anna Russell. So, if you'd like to hear the low-down on the prima donna life, from a coloratura soprano who does not take herself too seriously, you must see this masterpiece of a performance.

That is the line-up of concerts. The committee has done an excellent job of finding the best of entertainment for a very reasonable price. Now, it's up to us to support them. Let's not allow sagging ticket sales to threaten the existence of our marvellous concert series like it did last year. It's a great evening for a special date. We hope we'll see you all there.

Dick Schell, right, Anson, Hindon and Minden's building inspector recently received his Ontario certification. Schell is the first such official in the county to merit this title. The certificate was presented by Stanhope's building inspector Jim Moore, secretary of the Ontario Building Officials' Association, Kawartha Lakes chapter.

Trent Severn report

On July 3 the stored water in the Haliburton Lakes of the Trent-Severn averaged 91.5%, some 2.1% less than 8 days before. This was 4.5% higher than the 10-year average for the date and about 3% higher than on the same date in 1983.

In spite of some fine dry weather this summer, evaporation losses have not been excessive from the lakes of the canal route and therefore large amounts of reservoir water have not been needed. Small surpluses due to rains have generally lasted from one wet spell to the next with only modest changes of the flow required.

This week the tributary flows have been reduced to near minimum along the Gull and Burnt Rivers while a few centimeters of surplus on the Kawartha is used up. Rain today (July 6) may extend this situation well into next week too.

Alternative to hoeing weeds

Looking for an alternative to hoeing your garden weeds? Why not serve them? As well as adding a novel taste to your diet many of the plants are high in several nutrients. For example, lambsquarters are an excellent source of Vitamin A - even higher than spinach. Look for tender green leaves, harvest, wash well and steam for 10 minutes. Season as you would spinach or beet greens and serve.

Another popular wild edible is the dandelion. Here the young leaves are best as larger, older ones develop a bitter flavour. Adding crisp bacon bits and a creamy yogurt dressing will provide a flavourful addition to a summer barbeque. If you like to experiment, try dandelion coffee. Collect roots and wash them well. After cutting into small pieces, roast them for two hours in a 120 degree Celsius oven. When cool, grind in a coffee mill and use 25 ml. for every 250 ml. of hot water.

Are thistles a problem? Collect young stems and peel the tough outer layer away. These may then be sliced thinly for salads, for stir fried dishes or for a steamed vegetable dish. Young leaves can also be used as salad ingredients.

Collecting edible wild plants could turn into an interesting activity for youngsters at home during the summer months.

Just a word of caution however, be very careful when selecting plants. Use a good guide and be sure to harvest only the correct species. Serious poisoning can occur if the wrong plants are ingested. Also, avoid completely any areas such as roadsides or lawns which have been chemically sprayed.

Two good handbooks are the Field Guide to Edible

Wild Plants by Bradfield Angier and the Peterson Field Guide to Edible Wild Plants by Lee Peterson. Check your local libraries and book stores for other sources of information.

Low test time for dairy cows
Summer is the time of the year when many dairy farmers encounter problems with low fat production in their herds. And low fat test means less income, so dairy producers need to be concerned about this problem.

The June 25 edition of "Hoard's Dairyman" has an interesting article on this subject.

Fat test in dairy cows is directly related to the forage they are fed.

There are 4 basic facts to remember.

1. A cow's rumen has to be functioning normally for her to maintain butter fat test.

2. Since a cow is a ruminant she needs a certain amount of forage and effective fibre to keep her rumen functioning normally.

3. Too much grain, especially if fed in one or two feedings, can easily overload the rumen and cause acidosis, which kills her appetite and reduces her fat test.

4. When her rumen is upset, a cow's test can drop as much as one per cent in one day.

For fibre to be of value to a cow it has to be of good enough quality so she can digest it. The faster it's digested, the faster it moves through the digestive system and the more the cow can eat.

Mature, stemmy hay, and mature dried up pasture grass is not very digestible and cows can't be expected to produce well on this feed.

Even with good quality forage, you can destroy its effectiveness if it's chopped too fine, such as when it's being put in the silo, or even when it's being augered from the silo to the cows.

On hot days it's hard to keep high producing cows on full feed. If they eat less, it's probably less hay, or less pasture, and pasture could be deteriorating in quality at the same time.

During the summer get adequate amounts of good-quality forage and fibre into your dairy cows first, then worry about grain. When feeding large amounts of grain, blend it with forages, or feed smaller amounts oftener during the day. This should help overcome problems with low fat production.

Farmers should take a walk

- Ag report -

During the next couple of weeks, every farmer with any type of crops should get some exercise. This exercise should be obtained by walking through his/her fields and observing the crops and the various potential problems which can be seen in these crops. Even a few minutes spent walking in each field will be profitable.

Take a pencil and a small notebook with you to record the things you see for future reference. The points you evaluate in each field will depend of course on the crop in each field. Here are some general things to look for:

Rate your seedbed preparation and seeding methods by seeing if the stand is as thick and even as it should be. If it isn't, why isn't it?

How is your weed control program? Are there healthy weeds over an inch in height which should not be there? If not, you may assume that your herbicide program is not working - you may still be able to control the weeds with another spray. What kind of weeds are growing? Are there triazine-resistant weeds growing in your corn fields?

Look for damage caused by other pests such as insects and diseases. Outbreaks of these are easiest to control at an early age. Will there be a problem with armyworms this year? Checking your grain fields now may help you find the problems before severe damage is done.

Look for problems caused by poor soil conditions such as compaction where tractors and equipment have travelled frequently; poor drainage from a broken tile; nutrient deficiencies from improper or poor fertilization; or slow growing plants where the soil structure is breaking down due to a lack of organic matter.

These and many more things can be seen when you go for a walk through your fields. Remember, it is not possible to see the things you want to see sitting on the tractor or pick-up truck.

While you are at it, why not take soil samples for next year's crop? There is no time like the present for doing that task as well.

Events this week

Wednesday, July 11, 12 noon: Ontario Jersey Club Junior Jersey Rally at Lindsay Central Exhibition Grounds.

Sunday, July 15: Kawartha Junior Farmers picnic, Emily Park.

Did you know?

by Bambi Gilder

Did you know ... that the value and effectiveness of seatbelts or occupant restraints depends solely on their constant and proper use?

It was decided to conduct a survey to find out what was actually transpiring on the streets.

Police officers were equipped with a child restraint seat and a booster seat for demonstration purposes along with pamphlets to hand out.

Unfortunately, the results showed a high level of misuse of infant carriers and child restraint seats.

It was noted the misuse was not outright disregard for the law, but rather from misunderstanding or unavailability of manufacturers instructions.

Officers also noticed incidents of "doubling up" in seat belts, infants on laps where there weren't enough seat belts for the number of occupants or bundling baby blankets within harnesses which could all be very dangerous.

As a result of this survey, I would like to encourage those who may have any questions relating to this to contact your local police or MTC office as I know they would be more than willing to assist you.

Please keep in mind also that your County Information Centre is here to help people of all ages find solutions to problems relating to social, health, environmental and governmental subjects. Why not drop in to our office located in the Drag River Municipal Building (across from Emmerson Lumber) in Haliburton or give us a call at 457-2733. We are open Monday through Friday, 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Hi Kids!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Some have hidden words or sayings, some do not. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off in the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun.

Q: What do monkeys eat for dessert?

A: Chocolate chimp cookies.

Q: What do you get when you cross a fish with an elephant?

A: Swimming trunks.

The Painting

Last night I watched from my garden gate
A scene no Delacroix could paint.
The sky was like a wind-swept sea
Cerulean and purple beckoned me,
All coral, crimson, green and gold
A prism brilliant to behold.
Then in one glorious burst of fire
Now writhed, and dimmed with spent desire -
The sun sank low behind the trees
That genuflected with the breeze.
Then one by one the stars came out
Now here, now there, now all about.
The moon, a milky topaz eye
It hid as clouds meandered by.
A sly, seductive, winking she
That seemed to taunt, come fly with me.
Come fly, and see before your eyes
A dazzling glimpse of Paradise.
She spilled her shadow on the lawn
For elfin sprites to dance upon,
All filmy webbed, and gossamer
To cause aesthetic hearts to stir.
In sparkling beads of pearly sand
My garden was a fairyland.
Then with a final smile so proud
My temptress hid behind a cloud.
A chilly breeze began to blow
It chilled my loving heart, I know -
So with the vision in my head
I softly went upstairs to bed.

Well readers, the long weekend here at Hyland Crest, to tell you about it, I'll do my very best.

Della Curry had all her family at her son's cottage at Haliburton Lake, including her grandson and wife to be with his grandma and relatives all the way from Alabama.

Ruby Lewis spent the weekend at West Guilford First of July Celebrations, and to Haliburton to see the ball games. She said she had a real nice time, but I must tell of other names. Edna Cowen spent the weekend with her daughter, Marie Baker. She said she had a lovely time, different places they did take her. Some just couldn't go anywhere, they were sick in bed. So their relatives came to visit them instead. Our son and wife who live just down the line, came for a visit and stayed with me to dine.

In the chapel service Sunday night, Rev. Burgess took his message from Psalms 91, he always makes it so interesting. We thank him for a job well done! We also think of his dear mother who was going under a serious operation. We trust you'll be truly blessed and her operation will be a success.

Congratulations to Lily Miller who had a birthday on the 2nd July day, we hope more birthdays will be coming your way.

It is so nice to have Linda English back with us at Hyland Crest. After her surgery and a few weeks rest.

Rev. George Elliott of Minden Anglican Church, along with his worthy assistant Debbie Haughan conducted a fine service in the chapel, this 3rd of July day. Maron Rose came with music to play. We were pleased to see Gerald Welch and wife, who came from Florida all the way to see his dear mother who has just been released from hospital, where she spent many painful days.

Mrs. Annie Cox's son and wife who were on that huge boat that slammed into that rock, no one was injured but received quite a shock. We would like to thank Everett Fearey and his daughter Terri-Lynn who entertained us so royally, please come back again.

The movies Doris showed us Tuesday were just great. Frogs, Snakes, Turtles - Triangle Inland and Calgary Celebrates.

Mary Oliver had company. Now who would you suppose, her sister's daughter from across the water, from the land of the Rose.

Tuesday Ina McGuire they did take to her son's cottage on Haliburton Lake. She said she had a lovely time with her family all there. She said, "I'm tired this morning, but I don't care".

It is good to see Edith Welch and Chris Precoor and Margaret Sisson are able to come to sit at their places at the dining room tables.

Our auxiliary strawberry tea and bazaar is over and I will take a guess, by the number attending it was a real success.

Down at fun and fitness we have a great little helper whose first name is Chantelle. She helps to kick around the ball and does the job well.

The St. Patrick's ladies from Kinmount, brought in the lunch this Thursday, served it up so nicely but said no music they could play. With good food here we are surely blessed. But you know what they say, a change is as good as the rest.

Every Friday afternoon we have this get together. Our entertainers come along, no matter what the weather. They surely will be blessed. Jean Cox comes to play the music. Grace Coburn to lead the singing, the numbers our residents request. Grace also sang two numbers, "Thanks we give God" and "Bless this house". Well readers, with all this rain it'll just be making your garden grow and keeping you busy with the hoe.

The Final Word

The executive had left for a trip to Great Britain just before a customer phoned him at his office. "I'm sorry", said the exec's secretary, "he's gone to the United Kingdom."

There was a short pause at the other end of the line. "This is terrible," the caller said sorrowfully. "Is it too late to send flowers?"
